Experience:

Big Up! Hosting (2006-present)

I've been the CEO and fullstack developer offering all sorts of solutions to my clients since digital photography to graphic design and from software development to responsive websites. In all these years I didn't spend money on advertising and got all clients by reference from other satisfied and happy clients.

Here in Panama, I've got clients as Albrook Mall, which is the largest mall in Latin America. From United Nations, I've worked with UNAIDS, UNDP, and UNDRR. I'm also a service provider for 3 digital newspapers and I'm currently working with several environmental NGOs being SALA-SEEM the most important one. I also worked at Cable & Wireless as a programmer, National Authority of Technological Innovation as chief supervisor.

Outside Panama, I've worked with clients in Australia, New Zealand, Spain, Germany, Guatemala and Costa Rica.

My experience comes from become part of the clients' teams as a consultant and also as an active part of the development of the project and products.

Education:

International Olympic Committee MEMOS Programme (2019-present)

I'm currently coursing the IOC's Master Degree in Sports Organizations Management. The course is on standby until 2023 to restart due to Covid problems.

Infosys Fresh Entrants Course

From December 2006 to March 2007. This is the course given to all employees in Infosys. The course was given in Mysore, India where I scored a the top 10 of my class. The course is as intense as a post-graduate level course on Software Development and we were focused on C# 2005 at that moment.

Telecommunications Engineering

Finished in 2005 at Universidad Latina de Panamá. I graduated as an engineer in Telecommunications using the development of the nation-wide prepaid dial-up internet service as my thesis.

Other Education Received

I've been doing courses on several online platforms as Udemy and Coursera to learn new things all the time.
